

A Month in the Great Pacific Garbage Patch

the plastic that is poisoning our oceans...our planet...our selves...

Carcass of a Laysan Albatross Chick dead from starvation. Its mother mistook pieces of colored plastic for food floating in the ocean. Kure Atoll 2002, photo Cynthia Vanderlip, www.algalita.org

Join us for a free revealing presentation on the toxic stew brewing in our oceans from:

Captain Charles Moore

Author of Plastic Ocean and Founder of Algalita Marine Research Foundation

Updated edition of Plastic Ocean will be available for purchase

Presentation - "A Month in the Great Pacific Garbage Patch"

Day/Date: Tuesday, March 3, 2015 Time: 5:30 PM

Location: University of Puget Sound, Rotunda

Presented by The Sierra Club, Pierce County, The University of Puget Sound Sound Policy Institute, Surfrider and Tahoma Audubon