Next Wednesday 5:30-7:00PM join us for the opening reception of "My World in Ink" in the Postmark Vault Gallery.

Wol-Un b. 1999 (월운, 月雲) is an interdisciplinary artist born in Seattle, but currently based in Vancouver, B.C., since moving there in 2022 to study fine arts at Emily Carr University of Art + Design. Wol-Un's work has been shown in the Wing Luke Museum and group exhibitions throughout both Seattle and Vancouver. As an artist with formative experiences in South King County, he is extremely grateful that this exhibition, My World in Ink, debuts in the Vault Gallery.

"Through My World in Ink I share how I see the world through my infatuation with the materiality of ink. My practice is strongly rooted in the cultural traditions of Korean ink painting and calligraphy. By synthesizing these centuries-old techniques with contemporary methods, through the inclusion of new motifs, unconventional compositions, and modern styles of presentation, I aim to facilitate a connection between historical visual languages, narratives, and aesthetics within the modern world."

Come by to meet the artist and get a first look at "My World in Ink." Light snacks and refreshments will be provided! @ Postmark Center for the Arts : 20 Auburn Ave, Auburn, WA, 98002.
